THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

By Judy Ghastin

Mange tusen takk to Ann Bishop and her committee, Pam Ulness and Guri Wuellner, for arranging the Syttendemai dinner and entertainment. Thanks also to Jane, Kathy and Jann for providing the music.

Our lodge has some business that needs to be completed when we resume regular meetings in September. We were unable to elect a nominating committee at the April general meeting. Since we traditionally do not conduct business at the summer events, the next opportunity to elect the nominating committee will be at the September general meeting. At that meeting we need to select a committee so the slate of officers for 2014 can be presented to the membership for voting in October.

Several events are planned for the summer. The June bus trip sounds especially interesting. Besides Sons of Norway members, there are people from the community who follow Leah's trips and often join in on them, so be sure to register before the deadline to be guaranteed a place. Look for the registration form in this issue of the Nytt.

July is the Timber Rattlers ball game. There will be a tailgate party again this year so look for the details in this issue of the Nytt. Register early and come join the fun at the local ball park with the Brewer's farm team.

August is the corn roast. Many thanks to Betty Gjerald and her family for hosting this event again. Information and registration forms will be in the next Nytt. We hope many of you can come for the great food and the great company.

I hope all of you will enjoy the relaxing days of summer and the events our social committee has planned for Sons of Norway.

Judy

"What"? What can I do to help the lodge grow? What do I need to do to make the Sons of Norway relevant to my children, grandchildren, neighbors, and friends?

"Who"? Who are the new people willing to help in the activities of the lodge? Who are the people that you might ask to join the lodge to learn about Norwegian culture?

*Gratulerer med dag
juni*

IMPROVEMENTS PLANNED FOR PALACE GROUNDS

Members of the Norwegian Parliament voted to fund a NOK 70 million upgrade to the Royal Palace grounds in Oslo. Set to begin after the conclusion of the annual Sytteende Mai parade, the upgrades will focus on improving drainage and preventing gravel displacement onto nearby streets during heavy rainfall.

Currently there is around 13,200 square meters of gravel surrounding the palace. Parliament members agreed that the current ground cover "is not representative" and that a more attractive solution should be found. A new permanent form of ground cover and an improved drainage system will be implemented and completed before Norway's bicentennial celebrations in 2014. Source: Sons of Norway Newsletter Service.

SYTTENDE MAI CELEBRATION

The celebration began with a flag ceremony

The group was very intent when listening to Guri describe how Sytende Mai is celebrated in Norway

There was an informative presentation on Edward Grieg. Mother and daughter played his music, while a member of the Neenah music club waited before entertaining us with "The Hall of the Mountain King" and other Grieg compositions.

The evening ended with the flag ceremony exiting the flags.

The occasion was celebrated by wearing traditional Norwegian Bunads and a 1890's Hardanger blouse.

The First United Nations Secretary-General, Trygve Halvdan Lie, was Norwegian.

It was not just a ladies dress up night. The men also wore their Norwegian bunads.

MIDSUMMER

The seasons are changing and summer is upon us yet again, which means midsummer is right around the corner. The height of summer, June 24, marks the longest, brightest day of the year in Norway, the Land of the Midnight Sun. Also known as the Summer Solstice. The sun sets and rises in full view for those in the Northern Hemisphere and after a long dark winter, this time is a joyous celebration of a much-awaited summer.

This sunny day is celebrated under different names throughout the Northern Hemisphere with festivals, gatherings, and rituals dating back to Pagan times. It is said that John the Baptist was born on June 24, giving special meaning to this day for Christians around the world. When Christian traditions began mixing with Pagan customs, the day evolved from one celebration to another. Many cultures believe in superstitious rituals; for example, getting married on this day ensures good luck and a happy life for the couple.

Norway celebrates Sankthansaften, or St. John's Eve, each June 23, the eve before the longest day of the year. It is also called Jonsok which translates to John's wake, referring to St. John the Baptist's birth. Rituals carry on each year as little girls pick flowers and put them under their pillows at night with hopes of dreaming of their future husband. Many traditions continue to provide amusing stories and activities for children and the various origins of this day will endure, but the celebrations have and will continue to evolve over the years.

In Norway, festivities typically occur on June 23 and largely give thanks to the bright warm sun and the beautiful sweet smelling flowers in full bloom. Family and friends grill sausages and light bonfires bigger than on any other day of the year. Most bonfires are lit along Norway's coast and are assumed to protect Norwegians from evil spirits and trolls lurking in the forests. Rommegrot is a favorite meal on this day steeped with melted butter, sugar and cinnamon. Once the bonfires die down and the sun begins to set people understand that the cycle must continue. This means the coming days slowly get shorter and shorter until the days grow completely dark. Norwegians live with these polar opposite seasons every year and, therefore, they take full advantage of every summer and enjoy the extended company of the sun on Sankthansaften.
